STATE REPORT SHOWS JAIL IN GOOD ORDER

A report of a recent State inspection of the Oxford County jail reflects a most satisfactory condition of the property and a commendation of the improvements instituted and maintained by Sheriff James Lassiter. The report summarized:

Sheriff Lassiter maintains a high standard of efficiency in regard to cleanliness, sanitation and the preparation of food at the jail. Considering the fact that this is a very old building, there are limits as to what can be accomplished in this respect. For security reasons, there are three inspections of the jail daily. The maintenance of the County Building, of which the jail is a part, is done by the inmates. A request has been made to the County Commissioners for paint for the entire section of the jail, and this will be accomplished in the very near future.

Improvements to this jail are made when necessary, and it is considered that the jail itself is properly kept. In order to bring this jail up to present day standards, it would be necessary for the County of Oxford to erect an entire new building, which would contain all modern equipment. Insofar as the present buildings are concerned, it is considered that they are being maintained up to a very high standard and there is little improvement that can be made.

SMALL EMPLOYERS LAGGING IN MESO REPORTS

DUE BEFORE JAN. 1, 1956

According to Commissioner James J. George, Sr., Employer Representative on the Maine Employment Security Commission, it appears that a large number of employers of four or more, who heretofore have been exempt from the provisions of the Maine Employment Security Law, have failed to complete Special Status Information Reports which were mailed to them early in September. This failure to file these reports seems to stem from an apparent lack of realization as to the advantages in having these reports on file in the administrative office.

Under the provisions of the Maine Employment Security Act, the normal rate of tax payable to this Agency is 2 1/2% of the taxable pay roll. The law provides for an Experience Rating which is a lower rate of tax—as low as a minimum of .3%.

In order to attain a lower rate of tax, employers' accounts must be chargeable with unemployment benefits paid to their employees for a 36-consecutive month period on December 31 of any calendar year.

Accordingly, any employer of 4 or more—not presently liable to the Act, but which will become liable effective January 1, 1956, based upon the year 1955 employment could hope to attain a lower rate of tax in 3 1/2 years, providing the Commissioner's records show that employer's account has been duly certified and is in our files by January 1, 1956. Any new employer account set up subsequent to that date would necessarily have to pay the normal rate for an extended period of one year.

Therefore, it is highly advantageous to all potentially liable employers to take such steps as may be necessary to complete these forms and send them to the Commission offices located at 331 Water Street, Augusta, Maine, prior to January 1, 1956.

Specially trained Field Representatives are available throughout the State of Maine to assist and advise anyone in the preparation of these forms. They may be contacted through any of the Agency's local offices, or by writing directly to the Commission in Augusta.

CO-OWNERSHIP FEATURES OF SAVINGS BONDS EXPLAINED

The U. S. Savings Bonds Division points out that many investors apparently are unaware of the co-ownership provisions of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds. In response to inquiries being directed to the Treasury Department, Harvey M. Fickett, Maine State sales director, gave the following explanation of the provisions:

"Although individual purchases in any calendar year of Series E Bonds are limited to $20,000 ($15,000 purchase price), and of Series H Bonds to $20,000 (purchased at par), additional holdings by individuals are allowed under co-ownership provisions.

For example, take the case of a family of four, none of whom are registered owners or co-owners of Series E Bonds purchased in this calendar year: the husband can purchase $20,000 (maturity value) in E Bonds in his own name, and if he wishes, he can also purchase an additional $20,000 (maturity value) in E Bonds registered as follows: $20,000 in his name, with his wife as co-owner; $20,000 in his name with one child as co-owner; and $20,000 in his name with the other child as co-owner.

"In this example, the husband as the sole owner of $20,000 and as co-owner of $60,000 in E Bonds, can redeem all or part of the Bonds without obtaining the signature of any of the other co-owners. The same co-ownership provisions apply to Series H Bonds since purchase limits of E and H Bonds are applied separately. In the case of the H Bond, semi-annual interest checks on the full amount held individually and in co-ownership are mailed to the owner.

"Series E is an appreciation Savings Bond earning interest for as long as 10 years after original maturity of 5 years 8 months. The H Bond is a current income Savings Bond paying interest by check twice a year and maturing in 9 years 8 months. It is issued and redeemable at face value."

HENRY FORD II chairman of the Board of Trustees, Ford Foundation, which announced on Monday grants of $500 million to 615 colleges and 3500 hospitals. Included were three colleges and 28 hospitals in Maine.

The rink is maintained by the club members and has proved very popular especially when the skiing isn't good. An effort will be made to continue the skating during Christmas vacation with the assistance of volunteer workers.

GOOD REPORT OF SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS

The first Christmas Seal Sale report by the local town chairman shows that contributions in Bethel are very good and totaled $230.40 on Dec. 2. It was reported by Mrs. George W. Tuttle, Auburn, president of the Maine Tuberculosis Association, last week.

The December 2 report a year ago showed contributions totaling $239.25, Mrs. Tuttle said, but pointed out that a comparison cannot be accurately made as the sale opened earlier this year.

Mrs. Charles L. Pendleton is the Christmas Seal Sale chairman for Bethel.

"The fact that no case of tuberculosis can be treated unless it is first discovered and that the undiscovered case is a health menace to everybody, must be kept in mind," Mrs. Tuttle said, in reminding the people of the state of the importance of tuberculosis and the work made possible by Christmas Seals.

"Studies have shown that in society—among those we contact while at work, play and even sometimes in the home, there are people who have tuberculosis. In infectious stages who do not know they have it, these people must be found and placed under treatment to protect both themselves and others."

"It is estimated that there are several hundred such people in Maine and many thousands in the nation," she stated.

"The Christmas Seal programs of tuberculosis prevention, case-finding, rehabilitation and medical research work constantly to protect and help everyone," Mrs. Tuttle concluded.

Christmas Seal chairman for neighboring towns and the total contributions they report as of December 2 are: Greenwood, Mrs. Colleen Morgan ($23.00); Hanover, Mrs. Daisy Warren ($2.50).

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CREATES INDUSTRIAL COMMITTEE

In a move to step up the industrial development work of Maine, the State Chamber of Commerce has announced the creation of a new Industrial Committee which will work to set up development groups in every community in the state. The new committee will be headed by Paul E. Merrill of Portland.

In announcing the appointment, George D. Pearce, State Chamber president, said "Mr. Merrill's statewide business interests and his long activity in industrial development in other offices of the Chamber make him admirably suited to head up this very important activity." He added, "This effort is the result of a decision by the State Chamber's board of directors to emphasize in the coming year the Chamber's program for industrial development through local organizations."

As chairman of the committee, Merrill reported that a working group of businessmen, covering a wide geographical area, has already joined the committee and committee in the state will shortly be represented on a county by county basis. "The committee will work," Merrill added, "to organize industrial groups in all communities where none exist and to strengthen those where assistance is needed."

The new group will work in cooperation with State agencies, in particular the new Department of Development, and will be largely concerned with creating through local organizations a good climate for industry in Maine communities.

JOHNSTONE NAMED MANAGER OF PUBLICITY BUREAU

Bernard M. Johnstone, Executive Secretary of the Augusta-Hallowell Chamber of Commerce, and Manager of the Augusta Branch of the Maine Publicity Bureau, has been appointed Executive Manager of the Bureau according to an announcement made by James M. Acheson, President of the statewide promotional organization with headquarters in Portland.

Johnstone, a graduate of Colby College in 1932, participated in athletics during his academic years and was captain of the 1931 football team. He coached football at Milo, Skowhegan and Glens Falls, N. Y., and served as Principal of the high school at Kingsfield, Maine, in 1940 and 1941. He entered the Army in 1941; and, upon his release in 1945 became co-owner of the Snell Tire Company of Augusta, selling his interest in that concern in 1950 to assume his present post with the Chamber and Publicity Bureau. He is married and lives at 15 King Street, Augusta. He is a member of the Kennebec Valley Shrine Club, Kora Temple, and the Augusta Country Club, a Director of the Augusta YMCA, Vice President of the Kennebec Valley Community Chest and a Past President of the Augusta Rotary Club.

It is expected that he will assume the office of Executive Manager of the Publicity Bureau on or about January 1, 1956, relieving Guy P. Butler of Falmouth and Bethel whose resignation was announced a few weeks ago.

In making the announcement regarding Johnstone's appointment, Acheson stated that C. Page, Jr., of Gorham, present Field Manager in the Bureau organization, whose appointment to the executive post was announced on November 17, had, for personal reasons, found it necessary to withdraw his acceptance. A special committee of Bureau Directors met in Augusta on Tuesday, December 6, to consider other candidates and unanimously chose Johnstone for the position.

Dairying is an important agricultural industry in every county in Maine. Poultry is also not only Maine's top income-producing agricultural enterprise but has assumed an important role in each county.

$35,900 FORD GRANT AWARDED RUMFORD COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

The grant of $35,900 to the Rumford Community Hospital by the Ford Foundation was announced Monday evening. This was part of the $500 million appropriations approved by the trustees of the Foundation for privately supported institutions throughout the country. This huge sum, to be paid out over the next 18 months, will be shared by 615 regionally accredited privately supported colleges and universities and about 3,500 privately supported hospitals.

The announced grants are in addition to some $30 million in new appropriations under the Foundation's established program, and they supplement the $50 million appropriated for teachers' salaries last spring. Also listed is $90 million for strengthening of instruction in privately supported medical schools.

In Maine, colleges were granted approximately as follows: Bates, $34,300; Bowdoin, $509,500; and Colby, $432,300.

Grants to hospitals in Maine amounted to $1,237,600. The Eastern Maine General Hospital, Bangor, receives the highest appropriation, $167,700. Other besides Rumford include the Central Maine General, Lewiston, $112,400; St. Mary's, Lewiston, $69,600; Maine General, Portland, $149,500; Mercy, Portland, $87,700; Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary, Portland, $42,300.

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR MAILING CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Check these do's and don'ts before you go to the post office with your Christmas packages.

The post office says you cannot label a package "Rush" or "Do Not Delay" unless you pay a fee for spending handling or special delivery. Nor can you, in most large post offices, mail a package of more than 40 pounds or 72 inches in girth. As a general rule, the best advice is not to wrap a package of more than 35 pounds in weight.

You should print your own address and the address to which you are sending the package. You can label it "Do Not Open Till Christmas," "Perishable," or "Glass." You can enclose a Christmas greeting. And you can speed the package in three ways, by special handling, special delivery, and air express or air parcel post. Special handling is cheaper than special delivery, and does not include special delivery messenger service.—Changing Times.

Let's Keep Christmas Merry

After they put the blaze out, firemen counted 12 dead—10 of them children.

The time?

Christmas, 1954 — the worst on record when measured in terms of sudden death from traffic accidents, fires, falls, drownings and other miscellaneous mishaps.

In all, 604 persons that Christmas week-end died as a result of accidents. And 60 of them were fire's victims.

A week-end later, New Year's, 1955, 340 more met sudden death, this time 26 by fire.

And when fire was the cause, how had it occurred? Why?

Was it the gaily-lighted Christmas tree? Defective wiring? A lighted cigarette carelessly discarded?

It could have been any one of these causes or one of many others as well.

But when all are reduced to a common denominator, the cause is carelessness. And this can be avoided.

Potential Hazard

Take the Christmas tree, for instance. It's a potential fire hazard and caution should be taken in its selection, placement in the home, and maintenance.

You can play it safe by choosing a small one. There will be $5 million on the market.

Keep it outdoors until a few days before setting it up. During that time occasionally throw water over it. This will keep it moist, fresh.

When you bring the tree inside, cut the butt slantwise to open the pores, then stand it in a tub of water. Be wary of chemicals or other substances used for "fireproofing" trees. In some cases this process is ineffective.

Be Sure Toys Are Safe

Adults should insist that all toys they buy or give to children be safe—incapable of causing fire, shock, or explosion.

Your best assurance of getting a safe electrical toy is to look for the U. L. label or tag on the toy.

The U. L. label is especially important on toys producing heat. A U. L.-tagged toy will not shock the user or start a fire.

Adults should take care also in purchasing chemical sets for children. Toys requiring alcohol, kerosene, gasoline or carbide lamps may be hazardous in juvenile hands.

Parents should supervise any play with electrical toys or toys involving fuels and chemicals.

In placing the tree, it's best to avoid "hot spots" such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator, or electric bulbs.

Never use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decoration. Cotton and gauze can be made flame-retardant by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

Look for U. L. Label

Also use only electric lights, never candles. Be sure, too, that wires are in good condition and bear the U. L. mark denoting Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., which shows they have been tested for safety. Frayed electric cords are a fire hazard.

The switch for turning on the tree lights should be placed some distance from the tree. Never use an outlet or plug under the tree or run electric trains around the base.

Here are some other suggestions:

If decorations are used about the house, do not permit them to be around or near to chairs and other places where people may smoke. It is preferable to have them up near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing up.

Keep plenty of ash trays about the house during the holiday season, as always.

If lights are desired in windows, never use candles. Keep curtains and other flammable materials pulled back at least six inches from any electric light.

Use non-flammable decorations of glass or metal, and "fireproof" snow in decorating your tree for Christmas.

After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrappings and packing materials from your living room and dispose of them.

Caution with Costumes

A child wearing a gauzy costume and holding a lighted candle can be transformed into a flaming torch in a few seconds.

Santa's whiskers are also fuel for flames. A movie star for a children's party forgot he was wearing a big white beard and lit a cigar. His beard flared up.

A New York girl wore a black net evening gown at a Christmas party. She brushed against a lighted candelabra which immediately ignited her dress.

These incidents emphasize the need for caution at Christmas. Wearing of flammable flimsy costumes and dresses of net or gauze-like fabrics should be discouraged. If they are worn, they can be made flame resistant with the following solution:

5 ounces borax
4 ounces boric acid
1 gallon of water

The fabric should be well saturated with the solution, then wrung out by hand, and hung to dry. Fabrics so treated will retain their flexibility and softness. However, the flame-retardant qualities are lost when the fabric is washed again, and the process must be repeated after each washing.

When Dresses Catch Fire

When clothes catch fire—don't run. Throw the victim to the floor and roll her in a rug, a blanket or a coat.

Wrap the rug or blanket around the neck first, to keep the poisonous gases of combustion away from the face.

If no rug, blanket or coat is available, roll the victim over and over on the floor to smother the flames.

Turning only fans the flames. Since all fire gases rise, a victim in an upright position tends to inhale the toxic gases.

It is in knowing what to do in these situations that will save your life.

Some of the 60 who died last Christmas didn't know.

Ideas from other editors

From the Italy News-Herald, Italy, Texas—During the past two weeks we have had occasion to be thrown into the company of men from foreign countries both of whom were able to speak English. Yet, we would not so much as have recognized their language had they spoken in their native tongue. This started us to thinking and we were impressed with accounts we have read of so many foreigners who can come to this country—and many others—and converse freely.

We pride ourselves on being modern, up-and-coming, with the very latest of scientific gadgets and machines; we speak of our educational system as being applied to all citizens and consider our people to be the best educated in the world. Few of us can speak more than one language, however, and even those who do study a foreign language in our schools seldom get sufficiently proficient in it to conduct a conversation.

Amar Nandi of Calcutta, India, apologized profusely last week for his accent but we assured him that we had no difficulty in understanding him and wished that we could be sure of doing one-half so well if we visited India. "You would have no trouble there," he said, "because practically everyone speaks English."

If we are to properly hold our position as world leader, it seems to us that more attention should be paid to this language situation. Our people need to know more languages if they are to properly understand those with whom they are dealing.

From the Etowah News-Journal, Atlanta, Alabama: Everything carries a price tag. You can't get away from it. And what you get is worth just about what you are willing to pay. Low price is often the lure to the most expensive kind of economy.

Do you want to be skilled in just one job—a small part of a trade or profession? You can do that, too, and it will not take nearly so much preparation.

Do you want to be a handy man, a janitor, a stevedore, or a laborer? You can be—very easily. No training is required. The price of preparation is exactly nothing.

The world is full of laborers with strong backs and untrained brains. The opportunities are few and the pay is at bottom of the wage scale. The difference between salaries paid the janitor and the chief engineer is great. The difference is what it costs the janitor to be a janitor. He was not willing to pay the price of being an engineer. The engineer did pay the price.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

A long feature article in the November 21st issue of Newsweek is devoted to "The Revolution on Our Railroads." Its tone is set in an introduction which observes that "When the roads wound up the back- and track-breaking job they were called upon to do during the second world war, it looked as if they were headed downhill on a clear track to another round of receivership. The much-discussed 'railroad problem' was beginning to look like a permanent institution." However, the introduction continues, "The men who run the U. S. railroad had other ideas. During the past 10 years, they literally have rebuilt their lines, their organizations, their finances. Despite new and powerful competition—the railroads today not only are holding their own but are fighting harder and more effectively than ever to improve and increase their payoffs."

The article itself by Newsweek's Associate Editor John A. Conway is a full and detailed job. Here are a few highlights.

The cost of this railroad revolution has been enormous—since Vol day the lines have spent almost $11,000,000,000 on equipment, tracks and terminals. And, as Mr. Conway puts it, "The price they faced was just as big." The railroads' share of the total freight and passenger business had been dropping fast, and no one knew if the tide could be reversed or even slackened.

A major part of the spending—$3,500,000,000—was for new locomotives which would do more work, do it faster, and do it for less money. Almost 21,000 of these monsters have been bought, and others are on order. Work is even underway on an atomic locomotive.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I dip today my pen in ink and sound-off on how we could do a bit of refurbishing in Govt. "Presidentially" speaking. Our Donor Ike has had too much to do—not that he has not done a skunkum job—he has. He has shifted a heap of work to selected men—but if we get a good man and want to keep him a good one, there should be a shift-away from making the president's every move an occasion for handshaking or show, so that some dame or guy can go on home and tell the natives just how they shook the president's hand or looked him right in the eye.

But it is not Ike's job to curb the side appearances. It is the job of the ones around him to put on the brakes.

You know, if the public has got to shake hands and such, we could either do as England does, who's Queen or King make the public appearances while others make the laws. Or we could hire ourself a reasonably good facade of our President—far better for handshaking duties and leave the President to his task of steering the ship of state, simmered down, let's don't make the road rougher and tougher for Sen. Ike. Such a type does not grow profusely by the roadside. And in the second place—his name will need him in fetters in due time—down on the farm. Milking, run know—and eggs and such.

Yours with the low down,
JO JENKINS

How Much Debt Can You Afford?

How much debt can your budget stand? How do you decide whether or not to take on additional debt? Each month people have been borrowing one dollar for every six they spend, adding $8 of new installment debt for every $5 they repay. Alarming? Yes, say the editors of "Changing Times, The Kiplinger Magazine."

There are yardsticks to use to see whether or not your family is too deep in debt. These rules have been developed by bankers and professional credit men. They vary some, but by using them you can check up on your own debt and find out if you are within safe limits.

1. The total amount you owe should not go much beyond 20% of a year's income.

2. You should not owe more than the amount that 10% of your income would pay off within 12 to 24 months.

3. Debts should not total more than a third of your income left over after you pay for food, clothing and shelter.

The size of any installment you commit yourself to make is important too. A conservative total could be $100 a month. Here's how to see if your payments are the right size. First, most people have reached their limit when all monthly installment payments total more than 20% to 25% of monthly take-home pay. This is a limit, not a "safe" limit. A healthy picture would presumably show payments totaling less than that. Second, the payments to any single creditor should not, in general, be more than 10% of monthly income.

Here are five ways, suggested by "Changing Times" editors, to prevent yourself from getting in over your head.

Don't take on any debt that will run longer than the period for which you can safely forecast your income and outgo.

*When you buy on credit, you are paying slightly more in exchange for having the goods or service now, so don't repay over so long a period that interest will mount to a sum that is more than you want to pay for the privilege.

*When buying cars, major appliances, etc., don't sign up for terms that will have you owing noticeably more than the resale value of the item bought.

*In general, make your down payment as large, and your repayment period as short, as you possibly can without undue strain.

*Avoid "balloon notes"—those where installment payments pay off only part of the amount due and a lump sum payment is required at the end.

These days when you can find someone who will give you almost any terms you want, keeping within your credit budget is a matter of will power and budget balancing. Except in a crisis, it's not to use your maximum credit capacity but keep it within safe limits for necessities, long-lasting goods and equipment that may help pay for itself through budget savings. Today, credit has become almost the lifeblood of everyday financial operations, both in business and at home. If you have debts on personal loans you are not alone; 65% of the people in this country do, too. But among these folks, the majority devote less than 20% of after-tax income to making monthly payments. Few of these debts will run longer than a year.

Wisely handled, credit is an asset and worth using, but keep in mind an old money maxim, rewritten: "Credit is a good servant, but a bad master."

High School News

Basketball season, with all its ardent zeal and excitement is before us once again. Already the West Paris squads, both boys' and girls' have travelled to Buckfield for a scrimmage. West Paris was twice victorious, the boys achieving a final score of 70-24, while the girls tallied 64-19.

The first official game of the season was played at Mechanic Falls on Friday, Dec. 2. The score for the boys' game was: West Paris, 39—McFalls, 88. The girls' game totaled for West Paris, 48 for McFalls, 65.

"To keep 'em cheering" is the job of the cheerleaders. This year our cheering section consists of ten cheerleaders. They are: veterans—Starr Andrews, Gerry Andrews, Maurine Benson, Sandra Gardner; newly acquired members—Martha Ewell, Donna Andrews, Lavinia Chamberlain, Louise Gammon, Betty Richardson, Eva Day.

At each game two of the new cheerleaders will cheer with the four regulars. At the first game on Friday Lavinia Chamberlain and Louise Gammon will be the line-up.

With their new white sweaters, green and white pleated skirts, and some new cheers our cheerleaders will surely be a hit.

On Friday afternoon the cheerleaders will hold a rally where they will introduce to the student body their new cheers.

During November various fund raising activities were undertaken by the sophomore class. Of their activities the selling of Christmas ribbons was the major project.

Wreaths are a traditional part of the American Christmas. Freshman class members are taking advantage of this fact as they paint and decorate Christmas wreaths to be sold during the remaining weeks before Christmas.

Students of the business law class traveled to view the recent court proceedings at South Paris.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston
Soil Conservation Service

This is the time of year when organizations of all kinds are getting to the task of reporting on the work that they have accomplished during the year, so I thought this might be a good time to review some of the highlights of conservation activities that went on in Oxford County. I believe that the Supervisors of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District were particularly proud of the tree planting record in the County. As many of you know tree planting has increased considerably since the District purchased its first planter two years ago.

A total of 78,000 trees were planted by District-owned tree planters in Oxford County this year. The District planters were also used in other Counties and 100,000 trees were planted in Franklin County and 43,000 trees were planted in Androscoggin County. This makes a total of 219,000 trees that were planted with the Oxford County Soil Conservation District tree planters this year.

Those in Oxford County who planted trees this year were: Perry Chapman, Norway; Alvah Hendrickson, West Paris; Town of Canton; Fred Lovejoy, Bethel; Ralph Burgum, West Paris; Clarence Conant, Hebron; and Cedric Judkins of Upton. In addition there was some fall planting on land of Walter Olpe in Brownfield and on land owned by the Oxford County Soil Conservation District in Brownfield.

I will review some of the other highlights of the past year in the next column, appearing in a week.

Better Television!

Would you like to be sure you are getting good TV?

Are you under the impression that all the faults are with the stations?

Are you sure the actors on the screen are not too fat, thin or tall?

Do you get ghosts, shadows or vertical lines shaded black?

Do you get a white border around edges of objects?

Does a doorway or baseball bat looked curved or crooked?

Is the picture too large or too small?

Do you have the right amount of black and white in the picture?

Are the details sharp and clear or is everything a little blurry?

Can you receive all the stations you should?

Is your antenna installed properly? Is it protected from lightning and static charges?

Do you receive too much automobile ignition interference or any other kind?

If you want the correct answer to these and many more questions, simply mail a card to STONEHAM HANDCRAFTERS stating that you would like to have your TV set and antenna checked. For a limited time this will cost you five dollars. You will receive for your five dollars the following:

A Television Engineer with twenty-seven years television experience will call at your home with a properly equipped test truck. He will test your TV set with expensive and accurate instruments. He will test for Sensitivity — Horizontal and Vertical alignment — Focus — Size of screen — Horizontal and Vertical Hold — Video amp. ringing — I. F. amp. adjustment, brightness, etc.

The engineer will while testing make any adjustments necessary to correct faults provided the chassis does not have to be removed from the cabinet. He will measure the signal strength from the antenna. Test its direction. Examine it for errors of installation, effects of weather, and if it has proper lightning protection, etc.

He will then report to you his findings and recommend changes if necessary to reproduce a perfect picture.

STONEHAM HANDCRAFTERS can make this survey accurately and without guessing. They not only have the experience and technical knowledge but far better test instruments than most TV service organizations.

What you probably think is a good picture is likely to be long way from it. You have a large investment in your TV set, why not enjoy all it can do?

Remember this is a get-acquainted offer. Eventually you will hear about the excellence of our work from friends, why wait? Let's get acquainted now.

We service anywhere within 25 miles airline from East Stoneham, Me.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

M. L. Stoddard, Manager, V. A. Center, Togus, Maine, today offered suggestions of appropriate and desirable Yule gifts for friends and relatives who will be spending Christmas in VA hospitals.

Generally, Stoddard said, the gift which brings the most satisfaction to any veteran in a hospital is a visit on Christmas Day or during Christmas week from a member of his family or a friend. If it's not possible to visit him, the next best thing is a long, friendly, new-year letter.

A gift of a VA canteen coupon book was recommended by Stoddard. These come in denominations of 50 cents, a dollar and five dollars. They permit the patient to select for himself articles that he may wish from the stock of the VA canteen in the hospital. For the benefit of patients confined to their beds, articles from the canteen are brought in carts into the wards, so that patients may make their selections. The canteen coupon books may be purchased from the VA canteen service at the hospital, and are good for use year 'round.

Writing materials, including stationery, fountain pens and mechanical pencils, are recommended as useful and acceptable as fine gifts for patients. Hair brushes, combs, lotions and other toilet items are among gifts which many patients would be glad to have.

Gifts are cautioned not to give candies, cookies or other sweets unless they are certain the patient is permitted by his doctors to have them.

Stoddard also pointed out that books, magazines, playing cards and many kinds of games are furnished.

FARM EMPLOYERS PAYING $100 OR MORE MUST FILE SOCIAL SECURITY RETURNS

District Director of Internal Revenue, Whitney L. Wheeler has issued the following to remind employers that social security taxes apply to cash wages paid to every farm worker to whom the employer pays $100 or more cash wages during the year 1955. The taxes (a percent employee tax and a percent employer tax) apply only to cash wages paid to covered farm workers.

Every farm employer who owes these taxes must file a return on Form 943, and pay the taxes, on or before January 31, 1956. Farm employers should file their returns on time in order to avoid the penalty which may be charged for late filing.

Any employer of covered farm workers who has not already registered with the District Director's office should do so at once. The registration Form SS-4 can be obtained from any Internal Revenue or Social Security Office. SPORTS FLASHES

The wider free throw lane in college basketball this season will result in more hotly-contested scrambles for rebounds, in the opinion of Bud Millikan, cage coach at the University of Maryland.

The tall players, who used to stand near the basket when the lane was only six feet wide and had only to jump a few inches for the rebounds, must now compete with the smaller players for the loose ball, with the zone expanded to 12 feet.

In addition, Millikan pointed out to The Sporting News, a player formerly spotted himself where the free throw lane joined the foul circle. As a result, he merely had to step across the line in front of the foul shooter to intercept direct rebounds.

Now that the rebounder is three feet farther back, too, the foul shooter himself is in a better position after his shot to step forward and try to retrieve his misses.

Millikan says he does not expect the widened lane to have much effect on his offense because his opposition had almost reached the saturation point last season in the use of the zone defense.

In 23 of 23 games, his opposition used some variation of a zone defense. Millikan recalled to The Sporting News.

However, Maryland fans will see the Terrapins using some zone defense for the first time this season. Millikan admitted. This is the trend with less area to cover because of the widened free throw lane where a player can linger only three seconds.

Millikan isn't changing necessarily because of the new rule, he says. The coach explained that as long as Maryland has to practice its offense so much in preparation for zone defenses, he is going to have his variety set up the zone this year instead of his scrubs. That way it will condition his offense better.

Millikan was asked if the new "five-second rule" in which a jump ball may be called in the front court if a player obviously attempts to kill time, would hamper ball control.

"I don't think so," Millikan said, differing with other coaches who have said the rule will "ruin basketball."

"Our theory is that we are always trying to score, no matter what the situation. We don't believe in freezing the ball. However, I don't believe the officials will be too strict on this rule as long as a player is progressing toward the basket or trying to avoid toward the ball stolen by an opponent."

The Sporting News notes that Maryland, one of the powers of basketball in the South, will have a chance to put Millikan's theory to test on a big league plane this season.

Maryland opens its 12,000-seat Activities Building this season, one of the great sports show places in the nation.

Besides its usual strong schedule which includes Atlantic Coast Conference and Independent opponents, Maryland will be playing Kentucky, the country's best year in and year out.

After zooming to the top in football after only nine years of big-time competition, Maryland now is aiming at the same level in basketball.

President Spike Briggs of the Detroit Tigers likes to needs the Yankees. And he didn't miss the opening, says The Sporting News.

The confusion in Detroit over the Tigers' two John Philipps is over. One John Philipps, known as Bubba, was traded to the White Sox. The other, Jack, remains as a reserve infielder. Patrol 1 of the Girl Scout Troop met at the school building and practiced our drill. Then we all went down to Mrs. Douglas' and had our Christmas tree. We exchanged gifts and made Christmas candle favors for children at the hospital and shut-ins. Our leaders served us refreshments of Christmas cookies and red and green punch.—Norma Kimball, reporter.

Busy Beavers Patrol 6 met at the home of our leader, Faith Brown, where we had our Christmas party and supper. We had our guests, Bonnie Barnes, Nancy Saunders, Nancy Cole, Oakie Sweet and Beth Ann Brown. We all enjoyed the pictures showed to us by Aunt Julia. We had fun singing Christmas carols and exchanging gifts. Vivian Brown gave a Christmas welcome. We then went into the dining room which was lighted with Christmas candles and to a very nicely decorated table. We ate until we could not sing. Sharon York's mother made us a beautiful Christmas cake, and Mr. Bennett donated milk for our supper. We say thanks to Mr. Bennett and the parents for their co-operation in making it possible for us to have such a lovely time.

Girl Scout Patrol 3 met on Tuesday after school at the home of Elsie Waldron for a Christmas party. There was an exchange of gifts and ice cream and cake and punch were served.

Plainfield, Ind., Messenger: "If reports of the government's indebtedness make you sick in the pit of your stomach, just stop and think what causes most of it. We're not beyond the reach of the doctor. We've been asking too much from the government—a habit acquired by 20 years of a 'do everything' regime in Washington. Just ask for less—it's that easy."
